

Musician on Musician

by
Julie Stripling
&
Rick Snailsayer

And now for something completely different...

Scott and Stacey Burright, also known as "the Anachronaughts," have a wonderfully unique sound that is sure to please both acoustic and electric fans alike. Scott plays a driving, almost percussive rhythm guitar while Stacey throws in the occasional electric bass; they blend their voices together in distinctive harmony. While Scott's voice is nothing to sneeze at, Stacey's has a bell-like quality that can, at times, be almost haunting.

Now, as if being talented musicians wasn't enough, they've also mastered the art of entertainment. They can be quite amusing, providing a few chuckles intermixed with good music.

To top it off, they look great! They definitely get my vote as the best dressed act at the Neutral Ground. "The Anachronaughts" are, without question, a don't miss act.

— Julie Stripling

The Anachronaughts will be playing this month at 11:00pm on Friday, April 23rd.

In This Issue...
Words, Punctuation, and White Space
Musician on Musician
Pot Luck
Anniversary Celebration

April 1993

Number VI

All The News That Gives You Fits